

Make room for a good idea.

Read carefully. Leave a note. Keep what matters.

01 READ

A moment to pause.

02 ANNOTATE

A thought to keep.

03 CONTINUE

A little more clarity.

01 / The art of paying attention

The best ideas rarely arrive when we rush. They take shape in the margins, between a sentence worth keeping and a question worth asking.

Reading is not just taking in words. It is making space to think.

Highlight a passage. Leave a note. Return to what matters.

Your document stays on your device while you work.

One document. A clearer train of thought.

The next page is a real, fillable review form. Try it in Legir.

A LITTLE SPACE TO THINK

A few notes, before you go.

An interactive review form, right inside your PDF.

REVIEWER

Alex Chen

EMAIL

reader@example.com

ONE THOUGHT TO TAKE WITH YOU

Slow down. Notice the details. Make space for the next good idea.

I have reviewed this document.

Ready for whatever comes next.

Fill the fields, then export your work back to PDF.

Keep the thought going.

A small checklist for a more thoughtful reading practice.

01 Find your focus.

Start with one question. Give the document your attention.

02 Make it your own.

Highlight the useful passages and write down your questions.

03 Take the next step.

Save your notes and bring them into your next piece of work.
